

It's our air, but big polluters treat it like they own it. They dump millions of tons of dangerous pollution into our air, threatening the health of all Americans.

Now they're also dumping millions of dollars into a lobbying war against America's clean air laws – even as millions suffer from asthma attacks and other health impacts, especially the young and the elderly.

By setting stronger air quality standards for smog, the EPA can take a stand against big polluters and their lobbyists – and stand up for all Americans, including the most vulnerable.

Overwhelming evidence shows that stronger smog standards will save thousands of lives and prevent tens of thousands of respiratory emergencies each year.

Why would anyone oppose that?

ADMINISTRATOR JACKSON, WE ARE COUNTING ON YOU TO FIGHT FOR OUR AIR SO AMERICA'S MOST VULNERABLE DON'T HAVE TO.
